

What will happen...

In class on Friday, we discussed what we believed would happen to Rainsford once he fell overboard. Some of you said that he would swim to “Ship-Trap Island” and become part of a game and some of you believed that he would set up a new life on the island. Given all the information that we have read so far, write down your inference as to what will occur in the upcoming pages. Start from the point of Rainsford falling into the water. Do not look up the story on-line for help. This is to see what you retained from last week. To help, here are some occurrences to jog your memory. The night was incredibly dark. Both Whitney and Rainsford were up on deck discussing a shipment of rifles coming in – they were excited about it! Rainsford heard something! He leaned out, over the rail, and splash. He swam towards a sound.

Write a well-structured paragraph explaining what you believe will happen in the upcoming pages of “The Most Dangerous Game.” Turn to your vocabulary list for extra points. Don’t just throw the words in there, they must make sense, show coherency. You should not be quoting. That will show me that you used the text.
