

Please see the link below and read the following short story.

This is the tale of a kidnapping gone terribly wrong. Don't worry, I promised you a funny story, not a grim one. For homework you will be reading the entire story and then we will be doing a textual analysis in class. We did this with "The Most Dangerous Game." Textual analysis is a skill that you will be using again and again during your school career. It will teach you how to "close" read and it will often help you to understand author's purpose.

Enjoy!
