

Creative Writing I

Class Recap

9/14/2025

What We Learned

Today, our class explored the exciting world of creative writing. We discovered that creative writing is all about using our imaginations to tell stories in many different ways.

Key Takeaways

- Storytelling has many forms: We learned that a story isn't just a book. Stories can be told through poems, comic strips, plays, songs, and even pictures. This shows that everyone can find a way to express their imagination.
- Ideas are everywhere: We brainstormed and found that story ideas can come from anywhere! They can pop into our heads from dreams, real-life experiences, things we observe, or even from other stories we love. We discussed how paying attention to the world around us is a great way to find new ideas.
- "Idea Seeds" are a starting point: In a fun activity, we used "idea seeds"—like a random object or a "what if" scenario—to brainstorm new story possibilities. This taught us that even a tiny spark of an idea can grow into a whole story.

Homework:

Keep your creative juices flowing this week with one of these options:

- Observation Journal: Carry a small notebook and jot down interesting things you see or hear. These observations can be your next "idea seeds"!
- Story Scavenger Hunt: Find an example of creative writing outside of school, like a comic strip or a poem, and be ready to share what you found interesting about it next time.
- Idea Brainstorming List: Create a list of five different places or experiences that could inspire a story.

Remember, every great story starts with a single idea! I can't wait to see what you come up with.
